BENGALI ROOTS / DELHI

Sanjit Chakrabarti

I run my own digital marketing firm from my home, in my own flat in Delhi. Away from work, I'm happiest lifting weights or heading for the mountains.

Work and education

I studied computer science engineering at SRSIT in Bangalore under Visvesvaraya Technological University (VTU). I went to Salwan Public School in Mayur Vihar and KCMS in Kalyani. After college, I started GrowOnlineToday, my digital marketing and business growth consultancy. My annual income is Rs. 15-20 lakh.

Marriage and horoscope details

I've never been married. I was born in Sonipat, Haryana, at 4:32 p.m. My gotra is Kashyap, my rashi is Dhanu, my nakshatra is Moola, and my gon is Debari. A horoscope match is optional for me.

Outside work

I enjoy trekking and weight training. I sometimes volunteer with YFS, an NGO. I'm non-vegetarian and enjoy Bengali, South Indian, and Chinese food.

I read business and personal development books, including Pitch Anything and Never Split the Difference. I usually dress casually and enjoy trips to the mountains or the beach.

Let's get to know each other

I'd like to meet a well-educated woman who's open to settling in Delhi.

If that sounds like the future you're looking for, I'd love to hear a little about you.

My family

I come from a nuclear Bengali family with roots in Naihati, West Bengal. My father has a corporate job in Malaysia, my mother is a homemaker, and my sister works in bioinformatics at a company in Bangalore. I live on my own in Delhi and speak Bengali, Hindi, and English.
